In today's hybrid work modes, starting a meeting sometimes takes 10 minutes or more – a huge time-waster that's frustrating for everyone. With multiple, varied audio-visual assets and conferencing platforms, and no standard, easy-to-use interface, it is typically very challenging to join a meeting and collaborate.

The Kramer quicklaunch™ solution provides a simple and secure meeting room interface that simplifies and speeds every aspect. With multi-platform integration, it transforms any PC or interactive display into a one click meeting space.

Companies and organization can easily create their own fully customized and branded dashboard, including specific tiles or buttons, applications, and settings. The console option enables users to easily control the room from an on-table touchscreen.

quicklaunch™ provides the fastest and most secure way to launch and control any meeting regardless of conferencing provider. Users can join a meeting and start an application with just a click of a button. Sharing content and collaborating are made easy for participants in any location, in-room or remote, using any device.
